A VENETIAN PALACE.

ROBERT BARRETT BROWNING'S BEAUTIFUL HOUSE.

A Building Filled With Memories and Relics of Two Poets Dear to Thousands. The Owner Regards All Visitors as His Guests and Is Unusually Kind.

On the Grand canal at Venice there is a singularly interesting group of buildings. First, at the corner of the small canal which every tourist traverses on his way to and from the station is the great red pile known as the Palazzo Foscari. It is now used as a sort of business college, and young Venetians learn bookkeeping in the banquet halls of the old doge. Next to it are two gray and ancient buildings, leaning against each other and the Foscari for support. They form one of the Gustiniani palaces and harbor a mosaic factory. Beyond is a solid and rather gloomy looking building somewhat aloof from the neighbors and with a broad semicircular flight of steps leading from the pillared entrance down into the water of the Grand canal. The posts outside for the convenience of the gondolas are painted a dull brown in contrast with the blue and white posts of the other palaces. High iron gates close the entrance.

The first trip you make on the watery highway of Venice your curiosity will be satisfied in regard to this palace, if on no other point, for every gondolier knows the Browning palace. Get him to poke the nose of his gondolas between those brown posts, and if the custodian is not in sight ring the bell beside the iron gates. A rather crabbed looking man will let you in, and with a gruffness which is only, as it were, skin deep tell you to go through the court and up the broad staircase at the rear.

In the court you will find a bronze statue of a beautiful woman, about whose nude body a serpent has coiled its folds. She holds its head to her bosom and looks at it with a strange fondness. If you like speculation, you will begin to wonder what manner of man it is who modeled this figure, and you will climb the staircase with more than ever of anticipation, for the sculptor is Robert Barrett Browning, the sole heir to the names of two great poets and the master of the house you have come to see.

At the top of the broad stairs the custodian will be waiting for you at the doors leading into a great hall with a high frescoed ceiling by Tiepolo and a polished wood floor. If you are as young as it is to be hoped you are, you will take an experimental whirl across this shining expanse while the custodian's back is turned. Result, an envious sigh when he announces that this is the salle du bal. You sigh again even more wistfully when he tells you that a few years ago Emma Eames spent a month as a guest in this palace, and that every evening she sang to her host and his friends as they sat in the great easy chairs you see on that island of rugs at the other end of the hall. As if it were not enough to have this delightful old palace without also having one of the great singers of the world come and fill it with music! You become more than ever orthodox on the subject of "to whom that hath shall be given."

The custodian unwittingly helps to ground you in the faith by leading you through one apartment after another, filled with beautiful old wood carving, old frescoes, inlaid cabinets and pictures and statues by the owner of it all. More interesting than the works of art, however, are the reminders of the two poets whose personalities are so dear to thousands of people. Here is a bust of Elizabeth Barrett Browning, modeled by her son, and her portrait by the same careful hand, and there is an earlier portrait of her, more beautiful than those one generally sees, and a bust of her as a young girl, with the curls in the same way that she wore them all her life. In one corner is the small writing desk she used, and near it is the bust of her husband. In a small alcove is a reproduction of a memorial tablet in Florence.

One is surprised to find how livable this big palace has been made. In the first place, the owner in addition to the kindness of permitting people to visit the house has added the courtesy of regarding them as probably honest. Most "show" houses are scrupulously swept and garnished of everything which makes them homelike and real. They contain a barren array of chairs, tables, and so on, but that is all. Mr. Browning has been kinder to the visitors, whom he evidently regards as in a way his guests. There are books on the table, there is music on the rack in the music room, and there are interesting photographs of his father and mother. He makes you feel as if he understood why you came and was glad. You look at his own photograph with a kindly interest and are not sorry, after all, that he has a palace, and that Emma Eames came and sang to him.

He is, as shown by this photograph, a man of 30 or 35, with dark hair, which in your present kindly mood you regret to see so thin on top. He has a dark mustache and seems a well built fellow, quite as capable of riding across country as of painting the pictures and modeling the statues with which the adjoining hall is filled.

The dining room, looking out on the canal, has a fine big fireplace, lined with polished brass. You long to see how the light would dance in it. The butler's pantry adjoining is as large as the dining room itself, and the walls are covered with row after row of polished china and glass. The library is being made over to suit this fastidious young man and will be most attractive with the old carved pillars and woodwork he has picked up, he knows where. The floor above is occupied by bedrooms, while the ground floor is the home of the custodian, the "boathouse," and general storeroom.—Venice Cor. New York Sun.

LOVE AND THE ECHO.

"Love me, love me," still he cried,
"Ever love, forever!"
Cupid, laughing, turned aside.
Echo from the hill replied,
"Never, never, never."

"Love me, for I love but thee,
Ever, love, forever.
Heart to heart for thee and me."
Echo sighed, "It may not be,
Never, never, never."

"Love me now in life and death,
Ever, love, forever."
Sadly, in an underbreath,
Sobbing Echo answereth,
"Never, never, never."

"Love me, I shall worthy prove,
Ever, love, forever."
"Till a fairer face shall move!"
Mocking Echo answers, "Love?"
Never never, never."

"Love me," still the lover sings,
"Ever, love, forever,"
Cupid plumes for flight his wings
As the last faint echo rings—
"Never never, never."

THE ELDER'S PRAYER.

It Was Out of the Regular Order, but Proved Efficacious.

The Rev. H. D. Fisher could not resist the temptation to tell a story on a brother minister:

"It was Presiding Elder Still of the Methodist church. The good old man is dead now, and it can't do any harm to tell this story of him.

"The early traveling of the elder in Kansas was not easy. He had a mule on which he used to ride, and this mule was not always obedient. One day the elder and his mule encountered a swollen stream. Along the edge of the stream the elder and his mule strayed in hope of finding a safe crossing. Finally the elder found a tree that overhung the stream, and from which he believed he could swing to the other side. But the mule couldn't swing. He could swim, however, which the elder couldn't.

"All the extra clothing and the Bible were made into a bundle and tied on the mule's back and the animal led to the water. He swam safely across and began eating grass on the other side.

"The elder looked at the swinging limb, and dropping to his knees, prayed fervently that he might make no mistake in getting across. Then he swung out and landed safely.

"He knelt and thanked the Lord.

"But there was a new obstacle. The mule was having a good time in the grass and refused to be caught again. Several well directed efforts flew wide of the mark, and the good elder was in desperation. He must keep his appointment and he couldn't walk it. There was but one thing for the elder to do, and the elder did it. Down in the damp grass he dropped on his knees and prayed the Lord to help him catch the mule.

"This is the only instance I ever heard of in which a man called on the Lord to help him catch a mule, and to his dying day the elder firmly believed the Lord did it, though it took them both some time."—Topeka Journal.

Homers and Carrier Pigeons.

The homer and the carrier are both brilliant fliers, but the homer is the speedier bird and better fitted for long distances. The homer has the widest spread wings of all pigeons, and can sail for an enormous distance through midair. It is also considerably lighter than the carrier and is possessed of more phenomenal powers of endurance, having been known to fly 800 miles without alighting. On a clear day, with a good sky and favorable wind, 400 miles is an admirable record, although 500 miles a day is the goal of every pigeon flier's ambition. A bird that can perform this remarkable feat is worth at least $100, and may be valued at $500 if it is capable of a better record. The bird's gameness, stamina and speed reach their highest point of excellence at 3 and 4 years of age, which is the natural prime of life for a flier. After they have passed their prime they deteriorate in a scarcely noticeable degree and at 10 or 12 years of age are still good for the shorter distances.—Chicago Journal.

The Avalanche.

The guide gave the word to leave the channel of ice and take to the rocks on the side, for a snowball or two had rolled down from above, and he was afraid more might follow. Scarcely had we got out of our trough and upon the crags when down came an avalanche with a vengeance, and we were within 20 feet of a tremendous discharge of thousands of tons of snow and ice, which swept down the track that we had just ascended. We were perfectly safe, but somehow the half hiss, half roar, remained in my ears for some time, and for many nights afterward, when indigestible suppers or bad Swiss beer produced evil dreams, the avalanche was sure to figure in them.—Blackwood's Magazine.

His Idea of Martyrdom.

Child of 8 (returning from school)—Mamma, we have been reading of such dreadful times. I should not liked to have lived then, and I am sure you would not, for people were tied to a leg of mutton and after gunpowder had been put round they were all blown up.

Mamma—Are you sure it was not a stake they were tied to?

Child—Oh, yes, mamma, it was a steak! I knew it was meat of some kind.—Exchange.

DEATH OF TECUMSEH.

POINTS ON A QUESTION THAT HAS LONG BEEN IN DISPUTE.

The Claim That an Old Indian Warrior, a Bitter Indian Hater, Killed the Celebrated Chief—A Document Found Among the Late Richard Conner's Papers.

The following account of the death of the great Indian chieftain Tecumseh, or Tecumthe, was found among the papers of Richard J. Conner, editor of the Peru Sentinel, who died in this city July 25, 1895. It contains information touching the question that has heretofore been widely disputed. The death of Mr. Conner prevented the fulfillment of the task, says the Indianapolis News:

"My father's family was captured by the Indians about the year 1785. It may have been earlier or a year or two later. They were carried to Michigan, and were afterward ransomed by some Moravians, and the family settled about four or five miles below the present site of Mount Clemens, on the Clinton river, 23 miles north of the city of Detroit.

"When captured, the family lived at a place called Conner's Town, or Conner's Station, near what is now the east line of Coshocton county, O., adjoining Pennsylvania. The long journey through the wilderness then covering the distance from eastern Ohio to the Clinton river in Michigan was most painful and fatiguing.

"My father settled on White river in central Indiana in 1802, but he had made a trip to the Wabash in 1800. He remained at his trading post until the breaking out of the war with Great Britain in 1812, when he joined the forces under General Harrison at Fort Meigs, on the Maumee river, and with his brother John acted as guide and interpreter for General Harrison. He was sent by the general down the Wabash to the Miamis, Rattawatomies and Shawnees, to learn if possible their intentions and attitude in the approaching trouble with British forces. He knew Tecumthe and his brother, the Prophet, intimately. The Prophet often befriended him, and was a trustworthy friend. My father always spoke well of those Indians. He had many conversations with Tecumthe in regard to the attitude of the Indian tribes under his direction and his reasons for his adherence to the British cause, and his cooperation with that country in the war that followed. Tecumthe complained bitterly of the lack of faith on the part of the United States in regard to performance of treaty stipulations and contrasted it with the policy as carried out by Great Britain in its management of Indian affairs in Canada. He felt that there was no security for the Indian and clearly foresaw that the time was not distant when the Indian would possess little or no part of the domain he had inherited from his fathers.

"Tecumthe seemed to be fully aware that step by step the tribes would be pushed farther west or exterminated by the bitterness and hate of the white man. With a power warlike and aggressive as Great Britain to back and ally the Indian, he hoped to put off the final day and possibly save a remnant of his people.

"These, in part at least, were the reasons that actuated him in that wonderful crusade he was making, visiting the tribes covering the country from the lakes to Arkansas. My father said he had a persuasive tongue and a power to move his fellow savages rare indeed, and he never failed to rally the red man on to the war path. His nature was not naturally a savage one, and he often expressed abhorrence of unnecessary bloodshed.

"He declared that he would not tolerate cruelties or predatory warfare on peaceful, noncombatant settlements of white people, but he felt it his duty to rally the tribes and inflame them to a point of resistance and fair warfare against the government of the United States, which had for a hundred years persistently pushed the Indians from their homes and the places which that government had assigned to them with solemn pledges that they should always retain such as their future homes, and that it would protect them from the restless greed of white pioneers.

"My father was in command of 800 friendly Indians at the battle of the Thames, in Canada. His command was attached to Colonel Paul's regiment in that battle. His Indians did some good service and contributed to the defeat of the British and Indians.

"After the battle, late in the afternoon, he was summoned to the headquarters of Colonel R. M. Johnston, who stated to him that it was the rumor that the great chief Tecumthe was among the slain in battle and requested my father to take some of his friendly Indians and search the field and ascertain if it were indeed true. My father immediately took with him four or five Delawares and began the search, which was successful. When they found the body, some of the Indians were not sure that it was that of Tecumthe. There was a striking resemblance between the two brothers, Tecumthe and the Prophet, but one of them had a spot or defect on one of his eyes. One of the Delawares stooped down and pushed open the eyelid, and it was at once known that the dead man was indeed Tecumthe.

"During the political campaign of 1840 it was universally asserted by the Democrats that 'Colonel Johnson killed Tecumthe.' My father often declared that it could not be; that an old Indian warrior and a camp follower of the expedition in Canada, named Wheatley, was probably Tecumthe's slayer. He was a bitter Indian hater and a crank on that subject. He was not enrolled as a soldier, but went to the battle on his own account. He, too, was killed in the fight. Tecumthe was shot through the breast, and the wound plainly showed that he came to his death from the effects of a shot from a small bore rifle, such as the frontiersman usually carried. JOHN A. DEIBERT."

HE LOST THE GIRL.

But Got a Satisfactory Dig at His Rival Before He Died.

He and her father were great friends. As only four persons figure in this story it is unnecessary to mention names. He had a rival for her affections, and her father could never understand why she preferred the rival to him. One day when he sat on the porch chatting with her father she called him into the parlor and told him frankly that she had promised to marry his rival. He did not plead or beg. He kissed her hand with a sort of reverence, and then returned to his seat on the porch and renewed the conversation with her father. In those few moments everything seemed to have changed for him. The sun did not shine as brightly; the birds did not sing as they did before. Even the grass and trees seemed sear and dead. He had expected what he had just heard, but that did not seem to abate the shock. He was distrait and moody. Her father saw this and asked him the cause. He blurted out the whole miserable truth. Her father continued to polish his glasses carefully and then said:

"Wimmen folks is mighty onsartin critters." Her father said nothing more, but nothing would change her mind. Gradually it came to be generally known that he had been rejected, and that his rival was the fortunate wooer. They, he and his rival, were alumni of the same college. He was down for a speech at the alumni dinner. A month before he had attended her wedding. No one ever heard him complain, though all knew how he suffered. He was looked upon as the orator of his class, and a great speech was expected. When he arose, a sinister glitter could be seen in his eye. He began to speak slowly. He took as his text "Acquired Tastes." He spoke as length. Finally he said:

"I called upon a dear friend some time ago who had just had a daughter married. He felt his loss very keenly, I tried to console him, telling him that while he had lost a daughter he had gained a son. He said slowly to me:

"'Maybe I will come to like him after awhile—like I do my cigar, but the first few puffs are making me mighty sick.'"

It was in Kentucky. Not a word was said then, but just as the sun peeped over the hills the next day two dark forms were seen silhouetted against the sky. There were two flashes, a combined, subdued report—and one fell, never to rise again. It was he.—New York Tribune.

BICYCLE GUMS.

Another Physical Peculiarity Said to Be Due to the Wheel.

Bicycle riding and poor teeth are about the last two subjects one would place together, but that an overfondness for indulgence in exercise upon the wheel is developing a diseased condition of the gums and teeth can be testified to by many unfortunate victims and their dentists.

It is caused by the extra effort necessitated in ascending hills or in running races, and the short, quick breaths of cold air that strike the overheated gums through the open mouth develop a congestion of those parts. The face swells as with an ordinary toothache, pus forms around the teeth and loosens them, and in many cases leads to their extraction later, and the pain is equal to having all one's teeth ulcerating at once.

A prominent dentist stated, when interviewed upon the subject, that he had had several cases of that kind. "It comes," he said, "from an abnormal current of air, from fast riding, striking the gums, and if the popularity of the bicyle continues it will develop a new feature in dentistry. At a private meeting of several dentists the other evening we found upon comparing notes that these cases are increasing. The only preventive is a difficult one to follow, and that is always ride with the mouth closed. The same effect, however, is caused by an unnatural draft of air, as, for instance, sitting in front of an electric machine for a long period. I have had several cases of that nature from hotel stewards and their assistants, whose offices are generally situated in the basement, where a change of air can be brought about by artificial means."—New York Herald.

Blisters.

A surgeon in the English army has found that the best way to treat blisters on the feet is to insert the point of a needle or other puncturing instrument in the sound skin about one-eighth of an inch beyond the edge of the blister. Then pass the needle horizonally into the blister, and if raised the liquid will run out beneath. When the raised outer skin only is pricked, it is apt to be sore and troublesome. After the liquid has disappeared flatten the blister and cover it with absorbent cotton or something equally soft. Persons who have to be on their feet much of the time or those obliged to walk a great deal will find it a relief to change the shoes every other day and the stockings each morning.

Earning an Honest Penny.

Miss Lily nestles familiarly on the lap of a young gentleman who has been paying his addresses to her big sister all through the springtime of this year.

"Tell me, sir, are you well off?"

"Yes, my little pet."

"You are very well off?"

"Why, what difference can it make to you whether I am rich or not?"

"You see, my big sister said yesterday that she would give 20 francs to know if you were well off, and I should like to earn the money."—Gaudriole.

Antiquated Nonsense.

A wild bull grows tame if bound with the twigs of a fig tree. Amber draws all light things to it except basil and such as are dipped in oil. A loadstone will not draw a piece of iron that is rubbed with garlic. Now, all these as to matter of fact are very evident, but it is hard, if not altogether impossible, to find the cause.—Plutarch.

THE MANAGEMENT OF HIGH SCHOOLS.

Again has the Attorney General favored the people of this State with an opinion in advance of the Courts as to the law regulating Union High Schools. The opinion is given in response to questions propounded by Theo. A. Bell, Distaict Attorney of Napa county, and contains six counts. As this matter must be of great interest to the patrons and friends of our Union High School we will give the gist of the lengthy opinion with our humble opinion thereto attached. It seems that the Attorney General puts a litteral construction upon the High School Law, while we think that all our laws should be construed liberally with a view to give effect to all of its parts and to promote its object. Now, we will quote the third and fourth counts of the opinion and omit the others, because they have no bearing on this argument.

Third—"The estimate for procuring a lot, purchasing a building, etc., is a preliminary step, and a step which must be taken in its proper sequence, therefore it should be taken as the law prescribes, on or before the 1st day of September in the year in which the High School is organized, AND NOT SUBSEQUENT."

Fourth—"There is no provision in the law relating to Union High School Trustees to rent a building to conduct such school, etc. My opinion in this belief is strengthened by the fact, that, while the law confers no authority upon Boards of City and Union High School Districts to rent rooms or buildings it specifically confers that power upon the High School Board of County High Schools."

We beg leave—although we are not the Attorney General, nor a District Attorney nor any other kind of attorney—to protest, in the name of common sense, against such an interpretation of the law. If the Union High School Board is given the power to buy a lot and erect a building thereon at the time of commencement, or rent a room or a building for such purpose, it retains that power thereafter, the opinion of Attorney General Fitzgerald to the contrary notwithstanding; otherwise the object of the law would be destroyed. We can find nothing in the law forbidding High School Trustees to buy a lot and erect a building thereon after the lapse of the first year of the existence of a Union High School District. Here is section 1670, subdivision 14, of the Political Code. which will explain our meaning: "It shall be the duty of the High School Board to furnish an estimate of the cost of purchasing a suitable lot or erecting a suitable building or furnishing the same, and fencing and ornamenting the grounds for the accommodation of the school and of conducting the school for the school year. It shall be the duty of said Board, each and every year thereafter, to present to the proper authorities, on or before the second Monday in September, an estimate of the amount of money required for conducting the school during the school year."

It will readily be seen that it will take an hydraulic press to squeeze out of the foregoing section the meaning which the Attorney General puts upon it. If he is right in his opinion how would our High School stand? Having omitted at the commencement of the High School to buy a lot or erect a proper building thereon, and not being allowed by law to rent one our High School Trustees would be obliged to either close the school, or. if the teachers be willing, to conduct the school under the canopy of heaven.

We are in hopes that the Attorney General will not be able to destroy our High School, but if worse should come to bad and our courts should join in with Mr. Fitzgerald, then our High School Trustees can fall back upon subdivision 11, sec. 1670 of the Political Code, which gives them the same power as District Boards of School Trustees, including section 1880, which means that an election may be called by either Board for the purpose of issuing school bonds to defray the expenses of buying a suitable lot and erecting a proper building thereon.

TO BE A MODEL.

She Wanted to Leave Housekeeping and Pose For Pictures.

Not very long ago, while a prominent artist was busy at his easel, the brass knocker rapped three times, and rising he opened the door. "Who is it?" he said, not very pleased at the interruption. "Do you want a model?" was the response.

He looked at her with the rapid glance of the man who knows the meaning of form and color and the value of every feature. Apparently there was nothing to recommend her. The face was not beautiful, the skin and features were coarse, there was no pomegranate on the lips, no rose petal on cheek nor shell tints in the ear. The hair was a dusty, yellow gray, the eyes dull and heavy, the mouth and jaw thick and hard. All of this detail he saw as she passed through the door uninvited.

"What are your recommendations?" he asked her half sneeringly.

"I have a good figure," she answered promptly.

"Are you a professional model?" was the next query.

"I have never posed at all," she replied. "I'm a housemaid. I read something in the paper about the lots of money the models made, and I thought I'd like it better than being out at service."

The artist looked at the young Irish woman a moment, and glancing about the room, wondering what to say to her, his eyes fell upon his half clad model seated upon the stand. "Miss B.," he said, "will you tell this young woman about the life? She wants to be a model."

Miss B., with an easy, natural movement, threw the end of her garnet velvet toga across her shoulders and gave the visitor such a lengthy description of the trials, hardships and troubles of a model's life in the studios that when she advised the artistically inclined housemaid "to go back to making beds and scrubbing and waxing floors" the latter concluded she had better "bear the ills she knew than fly to those she knew not of" and took her departure as abruptly as she had come.—Philadelphia Press.

DRAWING UP WILLS.

Lawyers Do Not Want Their Names Identified With the Documents.

That it takes a smart man to draw a will is an adage the respect for which in the legal fraternity is evidenced by the fact that few lawyers want to furnish visible evidence of their part in drawing up wills. It is perfectly easy for a man to hire a lawyer to draft his testament, of course, no matter how complicated its provisions may be. It is quite another thing to get the lawyer to witness it. He will not even allow clerks in his office to do so except perhaps where the client is an old or regular one. He wants him to go elsewhere to get the necessary attestations. There are exceptions to this unwritten rule, it is true, but it is pretty generally observed.

"Lawyers will not so admit it," said one of them, "but the true reason is they don't care to be identified with the instrument. It is about as difficult an undertaking as a lawyer can face to draw up a will where the bequests are surrounded with conditions that will close up all loopholes to a contest. Most testators know how they want to dispose of their estates, but it is exceedingly hard to express their wishes in a way that will leave no doubt when subsequently disappointed heirs call it into question. The books teem with instances of the inability of smart men, some of them distinguished lawyers, to make a will that will stand under a stiff fight. Lawyers naturally don't want to be associated with a document that may be pronounced bad, and so they are unwilling to sign as witnesses or to let their employees do it. I suppose it to some extent argues a lack of confidence in their work. Anyhow the precaution is of little use, for invariably the lawyer who drew it is disclosed in any litigation over a will."—Chicago Tribune.

One on the Prince.

The Prince of Wales once visited a seaside town for the purpose of laying the foundation stone of the new harbor. The prince, in company with Lord Dufferin, drove through the town preceded by the mayor in his official robes. An old fishwife, failing to distinguish H. R. H. among the other gentlemen, exclaimed:

"I wonder which is the prince!" and then cried out, at the top of her voice, "Long live the prince!"

Instantly the prince turned and bowed.

"Is that him?" she inquired, with a disappointed air.

"Of course it is," answered a neighbor.

"Well, well," she replied. "That's a regular knockdown! Well, if our mayor don't beat him all to fits in dress!"—Liverpool Mercury.

A Beaconsfield Anecdote.

One day, when the late Lord Beaconsfield was walking in his grounds at Hughenden Manor, he was accosted by a well known parishioner noted for his ready wit. It being winter time and the weather unusully severe, the villager after paying his respects to his lordship commenced to make an appeal for a little help.

"How often have I told you to be careful and prepare for a rainy day?"

"Ah, that's right enough. So I did, my lord," said the ready witted villager, "but then who ever thought of seeing all this snow and hard frost?"

This ready retort had the desired effect.—Household Words.

Beethoven's Harsh Voice.

Beethoven had a voice so coarse and harsh that once, conducting a rehearsal, when he attempted to hum a passage for the 'cello to show how it should go, an involuntary roar of laughter came from the orchestra. He turned very red, but afterward himself laughed, and the incident passed on pleasantly.

The World's Fair Tests showed no baking powder so pure or so great in leavening power as the Royal.

Swept by a Cyclone

Of approbation to the pinnacle of popularity, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters has acquired a commanding position, which has occasionally made it a bright and shining mark for knaves, who seek to foist upon the community spurious compounds in the guise akin to that of the real article. These are mostly local bitters or tonics of great impurity, and, of course, devoid of medicinal efficacy. Beware of them and get the genuine Bitters, a real remedy for malaria, rheumatism, kidney trouble, dyspepsia, nervousness, constipation and biliousness. Physicians of eminence everywhere commend the great invigorant, both for its remedial properties and its purity. A wineglass thrice a day will soon bring vigor and regularity to a disordered and enfeebled system.

The foundation for Duhring's new building on Napa street has been laid. When completed it will be in two compartments, one of which will be used as a tinshop and the other as a store house.

There was a lively scrapping match on Napa street near the Postoffice yesterday about noon between two of Sonoma's citizens. The belligerents got a beautiful black eye apiece. No arrests.

A large delegation of Sonoma Valley people availed themselves of the cheap rates offered by the San Francisco and North Pacific Railway Co. for excursionists to the Mechanics' Fair last Saturday and many families enjoyed the trip together.

Prof. Zamlock is well-known as a most wonderful performer in the art of legerdemain and can be depended upon to give a first-class entertainment. He also gives away a large number of useful and valuable presents. Admission, with one envelope, 25c. Reserved seats at F. Duhring's store.

Eighteen deer-hunters were counted in Lovall valley last Sunday. They comprised four different parties in quest of the fleet-flooted animal. Although every mountain and ravine for miles around was thoroughly hunted by well-trained hounds not one solitary buck was seen. A few years ago he was a poor hunter indeed who could secure at least one deer in a day's hunt over the very same ground.

Miss M. Shaw and a lady friend met with an accident last Tuesday below town. The cart in which they were riding ran off the grade and threw them to the ground. They fortunately sustained no serious injuries.

A young Romeo of Glen Ellen who probably has seen twenty-two summers and who we will call Mr. W., was in attendance at the masquerade given in Kenwood last Saturday evening. His wonderful costume and make up was the delight of all and the difficult part he assumed was carried out to the letter. He transported himself to the dance in a go-cart to which was attached a sorrel mare. He returned to Glen Ellen the next morning at 4 o'clock driving a bay horse. The lessee immediately discovered the mistake and spent several days in locating his own steed and delivering the horse to the rightful owner.

NORDIN VS. NORDIN.

NUMBER OF AFFIDAVITS FILED —MOTION TO DISSOLVE THE INJUNCTION.

Geo. H. Maxwell's Alleged Interference Between Husband and Wife.

The Nordin case, which is the all-absorbing topic of conversation in this valley, was resumed in the Superior Court last Monday. It will be recollected that last week Judge Crawford put an injunction on the Agua Caliente Springs Resort, appointed M. K. Cady receiver of the property, and accepted as his bondsmen J. B. Morris and Horace Appleton.

The proceedings Monday was devoted to filing a motion to dissolve the injunction and the reading of several affidavits sworn to by Dr. Nordin, who is represented by attorneys A. B. Ware, J. C. Sims and F. T. Duhring.

These affidavits allege among other things that Cady, as receiver, was required to give a bond in the sum of $3,000 to take charge of personal property valued at $9,000 and that his sureties are Jas. B. Morris and Horace Appleton, neither of whom are worth anything over and above their property exempt from execution; that James B. Morris and M. K. Cady are wholly irresponsible and insolvent. It is also alleged that Cady has been during the greater portion of the time since his appointment as receiver under the influence of intoxicants.

Dr. Nordin also avers that he is forty-four years of age; that he moved upon the Agua Caliente Springs property in April and continued in possession until August 27th, when receiver Cady took possession; that the premises have been improved for a health and pleasure resort and not for a hotel.

Dr. Nordin says in his affidavit that he has no other place or home; that Cady has discharged all the help heretofore employed by him; that Cady has employed his own wife as cook and his daughter and niece to work and that the Cady tribe have taken up their abode on his premises.

Dr. Nordin also alleges that when he returned to his home at Agua Caliente Springs, just after suit was commenced, he discovered Geo. H. Maxwell taking his wife away. Nordin stepped up to speak to his wife and Maxwell told him very brusquely that he had lost his rights as a husband and he must not say a word to his wife. Maxwell then drove off with Nordin's wife without allowing her husband to speak to her. The affidavit says the order appointing Cady as receiver covers all the personal property on the premises in controversy, and that some of the guests at the hotel wish to leave, and that Mr. Cady has refused to let them have their trunks and wearing apparel.

City Trustees.

The Board of City Trustees met in regular monthly session last Wednesday evening. The Trustees present were Messrs. Seipp, Hartin, Schocken and Poppe.

The following bills were allowed: A. Baccala and N. Nassi, labor, $40.50; F. Demartini, burying dead dog, $1; Wm. Switzer, bridge work, $21.35; Fire Company, repairs, $3; F. RAILWAY SMASH-UP.

Miraculous Escape of Passengers on a Donahue Train—A Cool-Headed Engineer.

The derailment of a passenger train near the Hines ranch, three miles south of Petaluma, on Friday afternoon of last week; was the worst smash-up that has ever occurred on the San Francisco and North Pacific Railway. That the accident was attended without loss of life or serious injury to the passengers on board was the most remarkable episode in the annals of railroading. The air-brakes and a cool-headed and brave engineer did much toward averting a dreadful calamity.

The accident was caused by the breaking of a flange on one of the wheels of the tender which was attached to engine No. 17, in charge of engineer Manning and fireman Spencer. The baggage, mail car, smoker and tender were hurled from the track down a steep embankment and rolled over on their sides. The engine and passenger coaches remained upon the rails. Although a large number of people were in the smoker, no one was injured except baggagemaster Gilbert, who was slightly bruised about the body and cut on the forehead. The passengers were all shaken up and received a scare that they will not very soon forget.

The train, which was in charge of conductor Hunter, left Petaluma at 4:10 in the afternoon. The cars speeded along at the usual rate for three miles when all of a sudden there was crash. Engineer Manning bravely stood to his post, applied the air-brakes and brought the train to a sudden standstill, the baggage and mail cars slowly toppling over and bringing up at the foot of the embankment upside down. The smoker followed, turning partially over. The ladies in the passenger coach, which remained upon the track, woman-like set up a series of screams but did not forget to pile out of the coach, being joined in the wild scramble by the male passengers, who always look out for No. 1 in accident of this kind.

Giles, a hand on the Lakeville section, saw the accident from across the river, and taking a hand car, hurried to Petaluma and gave the alarm. Shortly after conductor Hunter, who had borrowed a team at the Hines ranch, followed and officially reported the accident. In a few moments he left for the scene on engine No. 13 of the day freight, which was sent down from Petaluma. All of the different section crews also left and soon one hundred hands were working to clear the track, which they succeeded in doing by 4 o'clock in the morning, under direction of Superintendent Corbaley and Engineer Zook who arrived on the scene soon after the mishap.

Engine No. 13 returned with the day coach of the wrecked train which remained on the track with the passengers of the regular 5:30 train crowded aboard. They were left in Petaluma while the train returned to the wreck for the mail, baggage and express and the passengers of the delayed north bound train. The train returned at 9:15 to Petaluma and afterwards left for Ukiah with the belated passengers crowded into the only two coaches available. Ukiah was reached at 12:30 the next morning.

The wreck presented a scene of destruction. The baggage and express cars were twenty feet from the track, with wheels and trucks torn from their fastenings, and many of the smoker windows were smashed and the rear end of the tender was completely wrecked, and freight and baggage was scattered promiscously around.

A Thieving Hobo.

John Brown of the genus hobo purloined a pair of blankets from the front porch of the residence of G. W. Long on First-street West last Tuesday evening. He was hunted down the next day by officer Robin and placed in the City Jail, and charged with petty larceny. On Thursday he was taken before Judge Cheney, who found him guilty and sent him up for thirty days.

A skirt that hangs beautifully is cut in three pieces only. The front and sides are in one circular shape. The back is in two pieces, slightly bias on the edges and bias in the middle of the back. To make a skirt hang perfectly the lining and outside should be cut on exactly the same grain of the goods, a point the average dressmaker frequently fails to observe.

It seems as if every one in these advanced days ought to realize that the stocking supporter should not be a bandage put around the leg below the knee, which, if tight enough to hold up the stocking, is also tight enough to restrict free circulation of the blood through the limbs, and cause, perhaps, much harm.

Since nearly all have to deal with sickness sooner or later, and trained nurses are not always available, some suggestions regarding certain matters connected with the sick room may not be out of place in this department. In the first place, and for all times and occasions, only bright, happy, healthy subjects should be discussed within earshot of a sick person or invalid. Where it is desirable to see the tongue of a small child, the object may be accomplished by touching the upper lip with a bit of sweet oil, which will cause the child to protrude its tongue. In case of insomnia a frequent change of pillows will sometimes produce sound sleep. Excellent results invariably follow a gentle bathing of the head, neck, arms and hands. The water must be of an agreeable temperature—neither hot nor cold. Never raise a weak patient suddenly for any purpose. Place an arm beneath the pillow and raise the patient slowly and gently as far as may be necessary. Return in the same manner.

Preservatives for Grapes.

"I was surprised to learn a few days ago," said one gentleman to a companion, "that the grapes we eat at dessert, especially the white varieties, may have been plucked from the vines a month before. A few days ago I went to a fruit store near my home and asked for two pounds of white grapes, incidentally remarking that they were for my little boy, who was sick.

"'Why don't you take one of these 5-pound baskets?' asked the dealer. 'They are somewhat cheaper when bought in such quantities, and besides I will put a preservative on the grapes that, while it will not impair their appearance or taste and is not in the least injurious to the stomach, will keep them for two or three weeks. Taste one of those grapes,' and he pointed to a big basket of fine fruit.

"The grapes were sound and of fine flavor. 'Those grapes you have eaten,' he said, 'have been kept in stock two months, and I can probably keep them as much longer. I do not know what the preservative is composed of. I get it from a big firm of chemists down town, and they guarantee there is nothing injurious in it. I have never tried it on any kind of fruit except grapes, but I guess it would prove just as efficacious on peaches or plums.'"—New York Advertiser.

The Terrible Gou-Gou.

Several writers, among them the eminent Samuel de Champlain, tell awful stories of the work of a supernatural monster that formerly inhabited the islands of the Bay of Chaleur. To the Indians of the Chaleur region this terrible being, which always appeared in the form of a woman, was known as the "gou-gou." As printed the word is usually divided, and pronounced with a quick, guttural sound, not wholly unlike the "goo-goo" of a baby. This monstrous amazonian, the legend tells us, lived on human flesh. She caught Indians by the dozens and stowed them away in pouches at her hips, the pouches being large enough, so an old Indian told Champlain, to hold "fifty ponies."

Hundreds of the Indians living around the bay declared to both Willis and Champlain that they had often seen the horrid monster step from island to island, and that her head was "higher than a cloud." "From what they say," Champlain writes, "I should say that Chaleur is the dwelling place of some devil that torments them in the above named manner."—St. Louis Republic.

There are some people who never wear dark glasses and yet they never see anything bright; it's the people who are dyspeptic and soured. Everything is out of joint with such people. "I suffered many years with Dyspepsia and liver troubles but have been relieved since taking Simmons Liver Regulator, I know others who have been greatly benefited by its use."—James Nowland, Carrollton, Mo.

Mrs. S. A. Kell, of Pomona, Cal., had the bad luck to sprain her ankle. "I tried several liniments," she says, "but was not cured until I used Chamberlain's Pain Balm. That remedy cured me and I take pleasure in recommending and testifying to its efficacy." This medicine is also of great value for rheumatism, lame back, pains in the chest, pleurisy and all deep-seated and muscular pains. For sale by all dealers.

A SENSATION IN CHURCH.

An Inquisitive Dog Created Consternation In a Puritan Gathering.

"Some curious stories are told in connection with old Puritan church customs," said Mr. Hezekiah Butterworth. "Some of the old customs seem very funny as we see them now. "It was little less than a crime not to attend church in those old days unless detained by sickness. In fact, a person was thought very little of who even came late to Sunday worship.

"One Sunday morning in early autumn a Puritan woman, whose reputation for housekeeping, spinning and church attendance was excellent, was belated in her morning work. She took her long necked pitcher and went to the pasture where her cow was waiting to be milked. This duty done, she found—for she could see people on the road—that she hadn't time even to carry the milk back to the house and get to church in season. So she took her long necked pitcher along with her and sat in the gallery right near where the singers and bass viols were displayed. After the singing was over and the long sermon had begun—sermons were an hour or two long in those days—she grew sleepy.

"Her long necked pitcher sat on the floor near by and near the front of the gallery. She was soon oblivious of either milk, sermon or a dog that came pitpatering up the gallery stairs. The milk soon attracted the dog. He smelled and wagged his tail, then smelled and wagged again, then looked inquiringly at the unconscious milkmaid. He made up his mind very soon, and into the long neck went the dog's head, neck too, He couldn't get much milk and wanted to pull back and try again.

"But he couldn't. His head was wedged fast in. He pulled and used his paws and tried to back away. Blinded of course by the pitcher, his steps were erratic, and suddenly to the astonished people below there appeared a sudden parting of the balcony curtain, an almost blood curdling yell was heard, and there was a flash and downpouring, straight in among the four unconscious deacons in the deacons' pew beneath, of snow white milk, long necked pitcher and a milk soaked, frightened dog.

"For once there was a great awakening in that church, but the poor woman was frightened nearly out of her wits, and the superstitious deacons were greatly scandalized."—Boston Journal.

Mrs. E. E. Davis, of San Miguel, Cal., says: "I am trying in a measure to repay the manufacturers of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for the great good their remedy has done me. For years I was a constant sufferer from weak lungs and bronchial asthma. My rest at night was disturbed by a hacking cough, so that I felt miserable the greater part of the time. Many remedies recommended by friends were tried, none of which proved suitable to my case. I did not experience any beneficial results until I began taking Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. After two bottles of the large size have been used I am pleased to state, my health is better than it has been for years. The soreness has left my lungs and chest and I can breathe easily. It has done me so much good that I want all who are suffering from lung troubles, as I was, to give it a trial." For sale by all dealers.

DYSPEPSIA.

E. W. JOY COMPANY—Gentlemen: I have taken your Vegetable Sarsaparilla and can say I have never seen anything equal to it. I have suffered ten years with dyspepsia, not being able to eat anything but milk and brown bread. Life was nothing but misery for me.

Now I have a good appetite, can eat anything I wish and feel no disagreeable effects from it. I wish I could tell all dyspeptics and urge them to try your Vegetable Sarsaparilla.
Signed. MR. JOHN TIMOTHY,
Forbestown, Cal.

If you want to get a spring medicine without a blotch, an old sarsaparilla trade mark, a big patch of red pimples, take Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla,

P. P. P. purifies the blood, builds up the weak and debilitated, gives strength to weakened nerves, expels diseases, giving the patient health and happiness where sickness, gloomy feelings and lassitude first prevailed.

For primary secondary and tertiary syphilis, for blood poisoning, mercurial poison, malaria, dyspepsia, and in all blood and skin diseases, like blotches, pimples, old chronic ulcers, tetter, scald head, boils, erysipelas, eczema—we may say, without fear of contradiction, that P. P. P. is the best blood purifier in the world, and makes positive, speedy and permanent cures in all cases.

Ladies whose systems are poisoned and whose blood is in an impure condition, due to menstrual irregularities, are peculiarly benefited by the wonderful tonic and blood cleansing properties of P. P. P.—Prickly Ash, Poke Root and Potassium.

SPRINGFIELD, MO., Aug. 14th, 1893.—I can speak in the highest terms of your medicine from my own personal knowledge. I was affected with heart disease, pleurisy and rheumatism for 35 years, was treated by the very best physicians and spent hundreds of dollars, tried every known remedy without finding relief. I have only taken one bottle of your P. P. P., and can cheerfully say it has done me more good than anything I have ever taken. I can recommend your medicine to all sufferers of the above diseases.

To all whom it may concern: I hereby testify to the wonderful properties of P. P. P. for eruptions of the skin. I suffered for several years with an unsightly and disagreeable eruption on my face. I tried every known remedy but in vain, until P. P. P. was used, and am now entirely cured.

Skin Cancer Cured.

Testimony from the Mayor of Sequin, Tex.

SEQUIN, TEX., January 14, 1893. MESSRS. LIPPMAN BROS., Savannah, Ga.: Gentlemen—I have tried your P. P. P. for a disease of the skin, usually known as skin cancer, of thirty years' standing, and found great relief; it purifies the blood and removes all irritation from the seat of the disease and prevents any spreading of the sores. I have taken five or six bottles and feel confident that another course will effect a cure. It has also relieved me from indigestion and stomach troubles. Yours truly,
CAPT. W. M. RUST,
Attorney at Law.
